RAIL STRIKE WOULD TIEUP MAIL SERVICE

Edmonton post office officials issued a warning to the public today that "serious, third and fourth class mail might not reach its destination, if the proposed railway strike becomes an actuality."

It was also advised that parcels containing perishables would, "on no condition," be accepted for mailing after the strike.

Unaffected, in the event of a rail strike, would be first class mail, which is landed by Canada's new, "all-up" air mail service.

Strike deadline is 6:00 a.m. Thursday, July 15.

Farmer, Wife Perish in Fire; Child Saved

A Fairview district farmer was burned to death when he attempted to save his family from their burning home, Saturday.

His wife also perished in the flames.

Dead are Adolph Weithold, 44, and his wife, Hilda Weithold, 41, both of the Fairview district.

Their child and Mr. Weithold's 10-year-old son are in Fairview Hospital suffering from burns.

The fire was caused by a gas stove which had a pan of fat being heated on the kitchen stove broken into the fire.

Weithold ran from the barn to the house in an attempt to save his wife and child who were upstairs in the building.

Braving the thick smoke, Weithold carried his child to safety from an upstairs window.

While attempting to save his wife, the 44-year-old farmer was overcome by smoke.

City's One Man Bureau Has Outstanding Record

By Pat McVean

Edmonton has an unpaid private detective; a bureau of missing persons operated only as a result of uncommon kindness.

The bureau's office is small, its single sleuth has a dozen other tasks; and its work is known only to a few who have benefited.

It is the Salvation Army's Inquiry and Investigation office in the "Sully Ann" service centre on 97 street.

Brigadier A. E. Ward is the "private detective" who voluntarily tracks down the several dozen persons sought annually in the Edmonton district by friends and relatives all around the world.

Manning Promises Election Answer

Either Yes or No Be Learned This Week

The long-awaited announcement on Alberta's election will be made later this week, the Bulletin learns.

Whether that announcement, to be made in the house of commons, will include an election date, or whether it will give a "no-election" notice is not known.

But a high-ranking government official told The Bulletin Saturday that "there will be an announcement on the election near the end of next week."

In the meantime, Alberta political parties are in full action in face of what they think is an impending election.

Total of 101 candidates have been nominated. Every constituency in the province is now represented by at least one candidate.

CCF STRONG

CCF party has nominated 41 candidates and has 12 more to go.

Elmer D. Smith, provincial CCF head, said the CP will not contest Hamilton-Cochrane riding, at present represented by CCF member, who was expelled by the party over a year ago.

Smith was taken to the University Hospital by Veterans' task force. X-rays revealed only minor injuries.

It looks as if he's going to have an election.

New CCF nominating convention has been announced for Grosvenor constituency. It will be held July 15, at High Prairie. E. C. Cook will address the meeting.

Edmonton Social Crediters Will Hold City Nominating Convention

Edmonton Social Crediters will hold city nominating convention tonight in the Social Credit league hall.

It is expected that Premier Manning will be the guest of honor.

Norman B. James, M.L.A. for Edmonton, told The Bulletin Saturday that he will accept nomination if he is chosen at tonight's meeting.

Mr. James, commenting on the election talk of past weeks, said "They are making all the preparations."

To Climb the Stairs or Take an Elevator?

To bring up a family today without the protection of life insurance is as foolish as to neglect to use an elevator in a skyscraper!

Comforts, conveniences and facilities unknown to our forefathers are now an essential part of living. To enjoy them and at the same time accumulate large sums of money through laborious step-by-step saving is impossible to most earners. Yet it is disastrous to take too much for granted and forget about the future.

How, then, can a man of modest means protect his dependents against financial hardship in case of untimely death—or himself against the hazards of declining years?

The answer is by taking an elevator—Life Insurance.

It can make a family to the level of a protected future by a few strokes of the pen. It provides independence for retiring years without unreasonable sacrifice. It is a modern development in the economic field to enable men and women to live wisely, safely and easily in the modern way.

METERS NET FIRST RETURNS

First cash returns from Edmonton's parking meters—80—were turned over to the city commissioners today. They termed "curiosity money."

The meters will go into operation on Monday, July 12, instead of July 17 as previously announced.

The extra-week delay in putting them into operation is to permit the general public to become acquainted with their use before police start enforcing the parking regulations.

A new law regarding the operation of the meters will be dealt with at today's council meeting.

It provides for the parking fee, penalties for infraction and general regulations governing the operation of the meters.

Four hundred of the 54 meters have now been installed.

Civil Servants Gain Cost-of-Living Bonus

Alberta civil servants will receive a cost-of-living bonus of $8.25 per month, retroactive to April 1, 1947, as a result of a decision by the executive council passed by the order does not apply to cabinet ministers, personal employees or provincial employees working on union contract pay rates.

Action has been taken to provide for the cost-of-living bonus because of increased cost of living, with no corresponding increase in civil service pay rates.

Subject to adjustment every three months, the order provides for a cost-of-living bonus of 25 cents per week for every point or fraction thereof above 100 in the Dominion cost-of-living index.

The 140 has been taken as the base figure, and all points above it will result in increased pay in civil service pay rates.

It is estimated that the bonus will cost the provincial government $300,000 per year.

Not Part of Education

The proposal to include automobile driving instruction in the high school curriculum of Edmonton has very properly been rejected by the provincial department of education on the ground that instruction of this kind should not qualify students for credits towards higher education.

There can be no doubt in the world that a knowledge of operating a motor car safely and efficiently should be possessed by every young person old enough to drive one.

And if the Edmonton school board can afford to hire special teachers for this subject and teach it on an extra-curricular basis, some public good will undoubtedly result.

But these extraordinary subjects should not be imposed on regular teachers who have enough to do as it is. Nor is it within reason that the operation of motor cars should be regarded as a part of basic education, desirable as the knowledge may be.

The process of education falls naturally into two parts: first, those subjects which are essential to every child no matter what his walk in life may be, and second, those advanced subjects which are motor to specialized training.

Motor car driving cannot possibly be included in the first part because a young man or woman can conceivably attain quite high degrees of success without ever touching the wheel of an automobile.

This sort of thing is quite definitely not part of basic education and the provincial department is indisputably right in refusing to have anything to do with it.

Regulating Bus Behavior

The bylaw designed to regulate the behavior of passengers in Edmonton buses and street cars is long overdue and the penalties proposed for infractions of it will not be considered too extreme in the opinion of regular customers.

Fines up to $100 will be levied upon those whose disorderly conduct disturbs or annoys other passengers, upon those who meddle with exit doors to permit persons to enter without paying a fare, upon those who insist on rides for their dogs or other pets and upon those who expostulate in the vehicles.

All these practices have been entirely too prevalent in the past. The new bylaw will give drivers and motormen the authority to deal with them.

It is to be hoped that the clause relating to disorderly conduct will be liberally interpreted to include boisterous school children who get into noisy scuffles in the aisles, belated young ladies who apply nail polish in the cars and buses and who get most of it on the clothing of their neighbors, and small children who find it necessary to suck on candy confections and dribble the solution on the necks of those in front of them.

If some penalty could also be provided for passengers who enter the vehicles in such lethargic dignity that they hold up crowds of customers behind them the picture would be complete.

Consideration for Arthritis

In the forthcoming provincial health survey which will determine how Alberta's share of the federal government's $30,000,000 health grants will be spent, due consideration should be given to the research in and treatment for arthritis being developed at Banff.

It is expected that Alberta hospitals will benefit from this new program to the extent of some $2,000,000 in the first year.

That is a substantial sum of money and should contribute usefully to the expansion of hospitals in this province which require it most.

Quarantine for Polio

The public will applaud the decision of the provincial department of health to continue to quarantine poliomyelitis cases and to regard it as a communicable disease.

There has been some tendency in Britain and in parts of the United States to do away with these precautions since the authorities hold that the disease is not communicable.

But the opinion even of an expert is not necessarily a fact. And science, as yet, has no definite knowledge of the manner in which people contract the disease.

In these circumstances no public health body has the right to take a chance, particularly with a ailment with the capacity for destruction possessed by poliomyelitis.

Quarantine imposes no intolerable hardship. And if the system should prevent the development of even a single case, it would be worth the cost.

The department does well to have every possible precaution.

Says Eisenhower Could Be Next U.S. President

There is one amusing thing in the "great Eisenhower boom in the United States. It is sparked by the liberal, leftist or labor wing of the Democratic party.

Yet when cross-examined these people all admit that they know very little about "Ike's" politics.

But who am I to poke even one word of the child-like ignorance of the "lefties" who are so sure they know more than I do myself, who live in the U.S.?

I am for my PHILPOTT as much as any Canadian can be for any candidate for a U.S. office.

But then I admit I am a bit of a fellow. I go by the headlines and always by my heart tells me far more than I do by my head (if I have). And my heart tells me that Ike would make a far safer president for the U.S. and us than would Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Of course Canadians have a vital stake in the U.S. elections. The fate of the Canadian is likely to be more deeply affected by the outcome of the U.S. election than it is by the outcome of the Liberal or Conservative election here.

But who am I to poke even one word of the child-like ignorance of the "lefties" who are so sure they know more than I do myself, who live in the U.S.?

power politics are such that our country would be in a horrible ruin if that such would be true even if the war were over. The American, in his aggression, I have Eisenhower for president because I think Eisenhower would have a better chance than Dewey to stop the drift toward war.

The real danger in a Dewey victory would be that he would drop out of the 1948 race. This would mean that the United States would be left with no progressive candidates for Congress, most of whom, as Democrats, would surely be beaten if President Truman is the candidate.

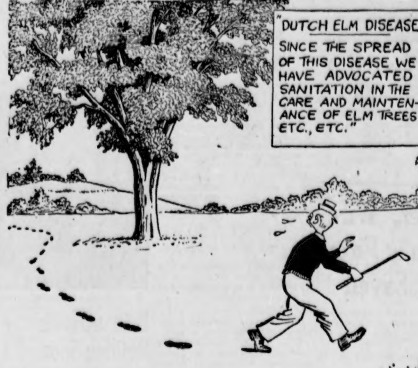

Moreover, if Eisenhower wins, there is a real chance that Walter Winchell would be elected in 1948. This would mean that the United States would be left with no progressive candidates for Congress, most of whom, as Democrats, would surely be beaten if President Truman is the candidate.

But the weakness of Eisenhower's position in the U.S. is a symbol of the weakness of the U.S. in the world today.

Basically there is little difference between the Democratic and the Republican party, even less than there is between the Liberals and Conservatives in Canada. The great difference between Roosevelt was subtle enough, in his idealism, to conceal his real intentions.

There would be no such real reason in America for the organized labor combines and the Democratic party to support the party of its own.

Joint Bank Accounts

Editor, Bulletin—Many people believe a joint bank account is a security for the one who remains after the death of the other. That is a fallacy.

I have lived in this one house for 30 years. My wife and I had a joint bank account. I died June 13. The bank account was immediately held up and my estate is now in the hands of a lawyer. He can not get the money released for six weeks or two months, I do not know.

Commodities imported, such as lumber and beef, would also cost Canadian users 10 per cent premium on U.S. funds because it would be re-

The exchange paid by the importer of oranges, machinery, etc., did not go to the shipper or producer, as is commonly supposed. It all went to the foreign exchange control board who hand it over to the exporters of gold, lumber, paper, etc., when they turned in the U.S. funds received for shipments.

The real danger in a Dewey victory would be that he would drop out of the 1948 race. This would mean that the United States would be left with no progressive candidates for Congress, most of whom, as Democrats, would surely be beaten if President Truman is the candidate.

Moreover, if Eisenhower wins, there is a real chance that Walter Winchell would be elected in 1948. This would mean that the United States would be left with no progressive candidates for Congress, most of whom, as Democrats, would surely be beaten if President Truman is the candidate.

But the weakness of Eisenhower's position in the U.S. is a symbol of the weakness of the U.S. in the world today.

Basically there is little difference between the Democratic and the Republican party, even less than there is between the Liberals and Conservatives in Canada. The great difference between Roosevelt was subtle enough, in his idealism, to conceal his real intentions.

There would be no such real reason in America for the organized labor combines and the Democratic party to support the party of its own.

power politics are such that our country would be in a horrible ruin if that such would be true even if the war were over. The American, in his aggression, I have Eisenhower for president because I think Eisenhower would have a better chance than Dewey to stop the drift toward war.

Empty Flag Poles

Editor, Bulletin.—I am astonished at the apathy and indifference of our citizens, regarding the absence of our good old "Union Jack" flag which they failed to hoist Dominion Day. Are they ashamed to show their loyalty at this critical period?

I am very much disappointed in the attitude of the Sons of England and the Sons of Canada.

Many will remember the time when every flag pole, street-car and motor car flew the old "Jack" on all the national holidays.

There was a time when our mayor would remind the citizens and remind the holiday of their duty.

Come along everybody, "Wake Up!"

Female Beauty To Sell Goods

A courier has just staggered in from the United States bearing the electric news that a Hull Durham billboard on Highway 10 without a picture of the girl. Instead of the usual steady, chair-lasted of the picture of a girl in a scanty white bathing suit.

This is it. This is the final, complete triumph of the female form in the world of advertising. The last remaining outpost of masculinity has fallen to the bra and the ballerina pantie.

And in the picture, it is the kiddies to bed and look closely and frankly at the evolution of the female in advertising. In a 2000 periodical, on the face of 30,000 advertisements, confronted with ladies in various stages of undress—a compulsion to purchase any product from Dr. Scholl's Zin-Pads to Whizmo motorbikes. There is no doubt that this is a very simple explanation.

In this study we had perhaps better agree first that the female form, as we know it in advertising, is a product of the 20th century. I think we are all determined on this point. It is a product of the 20th century. It is a product of the 20th century. It is a product of the 20th century.

Clearwater Area Hit Hard By Hail

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, July 12.—Considerable damage was done by hail in the Clearwater River district, eight miles south of town on Thursday. Hail the size of hen's eggs completely flattened crops, hay and gardens in an area ten miles long and two miles wide. Farmers think the grain will not recover to make at least a fair crop, but the hay was just ready to cut and is almost a total loss. Farmers with alfalfa are hurrying to cut it, but the weather is so hot and dry that it will be a terrible job, and not more than ten percent can be salvaged. The wild berry crop in the area was also completely ruined but if there are any berries in the country, there will be plenty in other places, and if the crop is poor, it won't matter. There was a drought north-west of town and some hail, but not enough to do any damage.

Indian Suffers 2 Bullet Wounds

CALGARY, July 12.—(CP)—Allan Medicine Traveler of the Blackfoot Indian reservation near Glacier, is in hospital today suffering from bullet wounds in the chest. Hospital authorities described his condition as "not too serious." Police said Medicine Traveler had been shot at close range Saturday night. He was found on a river bank near Victoria Park. One bullet entered his chest but did not go through his ribs. A second bullet struck a bottle in Medicine Traveler's left trouser pocket. It smashed the bottle but did not injure the man. Police are searching for four men reported to have been in the vicinity of the shooting Saturday night.

BEAVERS AT ROCKY OUTSMART SELVES

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, July 12.—The beavers that have been causing so much damage to fields and roads in the Ta'mi district outsmarted themselves last week. They had their dam on the land of a farmer who did not mind the busy little animals and would not consent to having them moved. The neighbors and travellers objected strenuously because the beavers kept building up their dam and flooding the highway, but nothing could be done. Then one day the beavers either finished the work they had to do or grew tired of their location, and moved over to H. K. Blisner's land. Mr. Blisner who had been troubled by them for years, hurried in to the Forestry Office in Rocky and asked that they be moved. As they were on his land, it could be done, and forest rangers went out, packed up the beavers and moved them thirty miles west, onto Chambers Creek where there is no settlement and where they can build dams to their hearts' content. Likely the beavers are not too pleased at the move, but they brought it on themselves!

This Saloon Opened Up To Kiddies

ROBKEN, N.J., July 12.—(AP)—Now it's a saloon with a children's hour. The place is run by one Parky Radigan, who hates to see those children's television programs going to waste. "Those kids," he says, "don't get to see television. They're too young to drink." The customers may have been started at first, but they made a profit when, as the children's program started, Parky closed the bar and called in the kids. When the show is over, and the bar opens, the younger set departs. For the older boys, Parky plans an afternoon-week of televised baseball. Day, of course. "I'll help keep them off the street," beams Parky.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, Monday, July 12, 1943 5

Showers Welcomed But More Needed

HARDISTY, July 12.—Welcome showers of rain fell in the district Thursday to relieve the parching grain and gardens. It was not enough to give much relief but freshened up the top soil a bit. More rain is needed to help the grain crop. Much of the wheat is headed but is very short. Out crop at a standstill and unless more rain comes soon, the crop will be poor. Many farmers are already planning to sell off their cattle as their feed situation is looking poor.

The business being completed, the afternoon with members of the delightful tea was served late in Innisfree and Primrose Institutes.

Easy-to-Fix Deals Must for Fair Week

By Bea Thrifty

Fair week with hot July weather and everyone busy having fun on the midway or at the races or just wandering around watching the crowds... nobody wants to work, including you and me... and especially Mom.

To give the chief cook and bottle washer in your family the easiest time possible this week—plan a menu of easy-to-fix meals.

Salads of course are top of the list—now that lettuce sells for a song—and tomatoes are entering the harmony at 35c per pound.

Always nutritious—and certainly a quickie is soup. Serve it piping hot with crisp crackers or croutons—or serve it chilled to give goodness.

Or serve it chilled—garish it by all means.

A dab of whipped cream mixed with minced cucumber and a dash of cayenne, topped with a silver of unsalted cake—gives that added savory touch.

Or one tablespoon shredded green cabbage and one teaspoon chopped green pepper give the color and flavor gotten.

Celery stalks, crisp and green, are a superb appetizer when filled with cream cheese which has been blended with a suggestion of condensed tomato soup.

Incidentally the green celery is far more tender and inclined to be less bitter than the white. But they are both selling at prices varying from 15c per pound to 22c per pound.

Often the little people bawl when times come for the daily dip in the bath tub.

But they have some little thing to amuse them, they'll love it. Try the little darlings and help keep their minds of un-fearful faces, scrubbed.

I can hardly wait until I see all the interesting new gadgets that are exhibited at the fair.

Each year I come home loaded with fancy odds-pens, carrot graters, egg-slicers, best choppers, fancy vegetable cutters. This year I'm eager and ready for a new batch.

I'll tell you tomorrow what I can find.

If you just can't seem to get enthused about eating carrots—try cooking them in consommé—whole course.

Mighty fine this—and give a new flavor twist to the faintest of carrot.

Chicken a la king just isn't all it's cracked to be—unless the sauce is made of a tin of condensed cream of mushroom soup plus chopped green pepper—and pi-mette if available.

Cauliflower, not over-done and served with parsley or cheese sauce or both can't be beaten for a simple, elegant.

And now you can buy it for 10c per pound. Or cauliflower can buy a small head of cauliflower for 25c.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Stormy Marriage Seen For Battling Couple

Among the baseless superstitions that have warped the judgments of mankind and brought untold suffering upon millions of people is the belief that there is some conjugal in the marriage ceremony that will completely alter the natures of men and women and change them from what they are to what they should be.

Hardly if ever, does this miracle happen. For we are, for the most part, what Nature made us, with the amount of brain and brawn and the kind of disposition that she allotted us.

And, for the other part, we have tastes and habits and opinions that we have spent twenty years in acquiring and that are practically unchangeable.

Yet in spite of all this, which is a matter of common knowledge, we are credulous enough to think that when we get married we do not only make our husbands and wives to our hearts' desire, but that we will be automatically turned into household angel ourselves.

In proof of the blind faith that we have in this fallacy, take the letter that I got today from a young woman who writes me that she is engaged to be married to young man with whom she is much in love, and he is with her, but that instead of billing and cooing to lovers are supposed to do their fight like the Killenkey cats.

There is no subject so innocuous as that they cannot get into a hot argument over it. Neither one can express an opinion without starting something.

They are bitterly critical of anything the other one does, or says, or has, and they almost come to blows over a book, or the movies, or the other they got when they step out.

PEACEFUL MARRIAGE? "My fiance," goes on the girl, says that this does not matter, and he quotes to me the old proverb that a stormy couple make a peaceful marriage. And he tells me that after we are married and settled we won't have any differ-

It's a lot of fun when a woman is invited out to dinner by her husband. Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake portray the famous Bunsteads dining out in a recent movie.

WHY GROW OLD

Happy Marriage Gives Women Natural Bloom

By Josephine Lowman

A happy marriage gives a woman more bloom than all of the cosmetics in the world! This does not suggest that we should shun the things which come in jars but that we should also remember that loving and being loved, give a woman beauty she cannot achieve in any other way.

You have often observed this, I am sure! Some plain women become lovelier. You never thought she was pretty before and you wonder what has given her this sudden radiance.

Making marriage successful in realistic and romantic ways is a most important job, selflessly speaking. Of course there are men who cannot be fitted into a romantic picture by their wives, this matter how hard the latter tries.

They simply do not respond to charm and beauty, understanding, thoughtfulness, tenderness. But these men are the minimum most men love to be romantic but just do not give much thought to it.

It seems to me that women are better equipped by nature, to guide love into subtle and romantic channels.

Perhaps the greatest fault in marriage is the habit of taking and giving in by her husband. The love, the greater temptation, and the greater the art for taking advantage of it. Way not keep some of the unexpectedness and surprise element in marriage.

It is a lot of fun when a woman is invited out on a dinner or dancing date by her husband. And it is fun for him if his wife looks and acts like a woman he would like to do.

There seems to be no logical reason for setting down on marriage for springtime eggs just because the two persons expect to live together forever.

If you do not take each other for granted it means that you will treat each other with the same courtesy and good manners you would to others, that you will be thoughtful and considerate and make a long time before criticising.

If you would like to have my list No. 1 "Keeping Romance Alive," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope, your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

No, it isn't true. It is the most mischievous falsehood that was ever promulgated, for the marriage ceremony is not peace treaty. It is a call to arms.

Husbands and wives upbringing and desires conflict at every angle have a thousand more things to quarrel over than sweethearts have, and if before marriage they cannot get along harmoniously together, after marriage they will either fight like wild to the divorce court or else become one of those pitiful couples whose married life is just an endurance test.

Of course, there are husbands and wives who are natural scrappers who were born with a chip on their shoulders, and who enjoy nothing so much as handling each other's knottiest blows on their most vulnerable spots.

Such is the taste. And if they get a pleasure out of insulting and abusing their mates, who shall they say then?

But the great majority of married people do not want a home that is a dark and bloody battleground. They want a place of peace and quiet and love and tenderness.

They are not looking for a sparring partner. They desire an appreciator, someone who will stroke their fur for the right way instead of getting into their hair. And the time to make sure that they will get what they want is before marriage, not afterwards.

So, no matter how much an engaged couple think they love each other, they should break off their marriage if they find themselves antagonistic.

They have laid their warning, and if they are wise, they see it.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Child Adds 'Bad' Words To Speech For Effect

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

When the child is four, or thereabouts, and wanders farther from the home doorstep, he is certain to pick up some "bad" words.

It is inevitable that children will hear new and tantalizing words. If they try them out and discover that some can cause the family to shudder and cast deploring glances at each other—or snicker furtively—these are the words they tend to repeat.

The parent should be cautious about her reception of these shocking words. She must know that all words they are relatively meaningless to the child. She must recognize, too, how seductively they can become, if the child finds their use adds up to a real adventure in disturbing the parent.

Profanity consists of words. Quite often of words which are imitations of others and a desire to talk in a manner which is different from theirs. It is a child's depravity it is acts which are censurable, not just words.

Of course, it wouldn't be natural for a parent to welcome ugly words on the lips of an innocent child. There must be explanation of why these are ugly and how distressing they sound to persons who know their meaning. Children do not know that adults in general deplore the use of profanity by children, and that other mothers may refuse to let their children use them.

Better to accept that words are adventures, and children copy what they hear from other children, and from Daddies, uncles, big brothers, and many others. While we make it plain that such words are as unbecoming as garments unsuited to their size, do not give them the idea that their speech indicates an enchanting wickedness. If they talk that way, say, "Not in my presence," and banish them. But the word is an omnipresent slip we try to be accidentally deaf.

Our leaflet No. 42, "Normal Speech Development," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with five cents to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Unusual Silverware

In Danish Display

NEW YORK, July 12.—(CP)—There's nothing softer in the state of Denmark when it comes to making silverware.

Danish architects and sculptors work closely with the country's famous silversmiths. The results on display here, are functional pieces that are simple in design and free of ornamentation.

"Classic," one pattern for spoons, forks and knives, was designed by Ole Hagen, Danish architect. It has long thin handles ending in a flat curve, a base that lifts up slightly at the tip to emphasize the metal sheen.

U.S. Cowboy North American Champ

Big Bill Linderman Captures Title at Calgary Stampede

CALGARY, July 12.—(CP)—A tough, wiry cowboy from Montana is the new bronk-busting champion of North America.

Bill Linderman of Red Lodge and Billings, Mont., Saturday night was acclaimed champion of the bucking horse riding with association saddle as the six-day Calgary Stampede drew to a close. He succeeds Jim Like of Kim, Colo., to the title.

The break riding competition was one of the events of the Stampede recognized by the rodeo Association as North American championship events.

While more than 40,000 Stampede fans roared approval, Linderman also was crowned all-around North American cowboy. It marked the fifth straight time Bill's general range riding ability had won him the title.

RECORD ATTENDANCE

A record number of 316,823 persons paid admission into the grounds during the week to set an all-time Stampede attendance mark. Attendance at the final day Saturday was 68,014 compared with the former record attendance mark of 58,822 set last year. It was the sixth straight day that the day attendance mark had been established.

Jim Turner of Red Creek, Tex., and Ken Brewer of Manyberries, Alta., prevented United States cowboys from making a clean sweep of major events. Brewer edged out Jim Smolder of Yellow City, Okla., in the barrel racing bucking horse championship.

Turner won the movie saddle bronk riding event that saw a talented group of young Alberta cowboys take all four first prizes.

$1000 IN PRIZES

Linderman, who picked up more than $1,000 in prize money during the week-long Stampede, held a four-point lead in final totals for the North American bronk riding event. Carl Olson of Christian, Alta., who gave a brilliant ride to win the first of three grounds for the covered title was second with 1,051 points. Ken Madland, Portland, Ore., and Gene Proter, Yakima, Wash., finished third and fourth, respectively.

F. C. Stover, Tulsa, Okla., became North America's champion calf roping with a combined time of 58.5 seconds for three calves. Stover also won the wild cow milking contest to pocket more than $1,000 in prize money.

Elloit Chabot, Las Cruces, N.M., slipped ribbons over the horns of three wild steers in a time of 9:15 seconds to take the steer decorating crown.

Johnny Swain of Inland, Alta., became the new chuckwagon champion.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Just when people thought the film production outlook couldn't get worse, it does.

For a year or more, we've been hearing how Hollywood has been beset with a variety of knotty problems—without success, British studios and their ailing British office, etc. These stresses and strains are now being compounded by a generally decreased state of film production during the summer months.

Today's feature: Hollywood sighs and wails.

Soundie has rehiring a song and dance number which she will perform without skates in "The Countess of Monte Cristo".

Oil Continental 3 Is Abandoned

By Cecil Jackson

The northeast extension attempt of Continental Oil Company of Canada Limited was being abandoned this morning according to reports from the field. The Continental No. 3 hole was drilled about a mile and a half north of the eastern production limits at Leduc and two and a half miles east and a little south of Woodbend production.

After a depth of 5,500 feet had been reached without getting out of the green shale into the oil zone, it was decided that further drilling was futile. A small rise of sulphur water had been obtained in the D2 zone test. Failure to get production at this hole has placed new limitations on the area of potential production.

Rig from the abandoned hole will be moved to a location on property acquired by Phillips Petroleum of Oklahoma at a recent government auction.

NOT ENCOURAGING
Reports from Calmont-Leduc No. 1 hole located a mile south of the latest abandoned hole are not encouraging. At last report it was still in the thickened green shale formation below 5,500 feet. Abandonment appears certain.

Casting has been abandoned at Central Gas and Oil Products with the hole bottomed at 5,500 feet. It will be drilled in a couple of days. The future of the well will be run down to the extension portosity.

LOOKS LIKE EXTENSION
Although there is no confirmation of reports, it seems that the favorable D2 zone elevation has

STRIKE THREAT DISRUPTS TRADE

WINNIPEG, July 12.—(CP)—Officials of the Winnipeg livestock market, said today that trade had been "disrupted" because of the threatened railway strike. They said that selling was "at a standstill" and that no quotations had been established. Receipts were cattle 2,100, calves 1,400, hogs 700, sheep and lambs 335.

United States Meat Supply Problem Acute

CHICAGO, July 12.—(BUP)—A livestock expert said today that, considering the demand, the United States meat supply is the shortest on record.

H. M. Conway, market analyst for the National Association of Live Stock Raisers, said that the supply problem will remain "acute" throughout the summer.

"Considering population growth in the past decade and prevailing high prices, the current per capita meat supply is very inadequate," Conway said in an article in the National Livestock Producer.

He estimates that the supply follows a report by the U.S. department of agriculture, which said that livestock and wholesale meat prices last week soared to the highest levels in history.

Conway blamed the short supply on the poor crop last year, plus on the effects of the strike this spring. He said that the current price of livestock is calculated on the basis of the May average to be 3,722 barrels daily.
